Kelley Losey has been with Cascade Engineering since 1996. Cascade Engineering is a leader in developing and producing injection molded plastic systems and modules for global markets. Cascade has been recognized by the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Administration for its progressive safety practices and by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality for being a clean corporate citizen. Cascade has developed a world class environmental management system based on ISO 14001, recycling programs and triple bottom line reporting.

Prior to working in the environmental, health, safety, and security field, Kelley held the position of Human Resource Manager for Cascade Engineering and similar positions with two other manufacturers in the West Michigan area. Kelley is active in her profession, serving as ex-officio of the West Michigan Sustainable Business Forum and a member of the Community Sustainability Partnership planning team.

Kelley received her Senior Professional in Human Resources Certification from the Society for Human Resource Management, her E.M.S. Leader Auditor designation for Environmental Management Systems, and her business degree from Cornerstone University.
